KLEOS

AMSTERDAM BULLETIN OF ANCIENT STUDIES AND ARCHAEOLOGY

EDITORIAL POLICY

Kleos, the Amsterdam Bulletin of Ancient Studies and Archaeology is a peer-reviewed, open access English-language bulletin that publishes current research, as well as review articles. Kleos is run by an editorial team of (post)graduates of the Amsterdam Centre for Ancient Studies and Archaeology and coached by members of ACASA's academic staff.

The topics discussed in Kleos address archaeological method, theory and valorisation, including Prehistoric to Medieval times. It encourages debate and offers insight into research done by (post)graduates, PhD-researchers as well as independent researchers studying Northwest European, Mediterranean and Near Eastern archaeology and ancient history. The first issue has been launched in September 2015. The Bulletin will continue to appear online once a year in February or September.

In addition to the articles in the yearly bulletin, the Kleos website offers an online podium for field reports, reviews of books, museum exhibitions and conferences. Furthermore, this podium aims to promote the broad spectrum of events and activities of post-graduates of ancient studies and archaeology.

1. Submission of an article is taken to imply that it has not been previously published internationally, and has not been submitted for publication elsewhere. The author stays the owner of the copyright on his own work.
2. Kleos will not accept any paper that serves as the primary publication of any object or archaeological material in a private or public collection after 30 December 1973 unless its existence is documented before that date or it was legally exported from the country of origin.
3. As author you are responsible for obtaining written permission and meeting any related costs for the use of all materials under copyright (such as illustrations and texts), for use in electronic media, and for the correct acknowledgements for use. If your submission is accepted for publication, you will be asked to provide a copy of the relevant permission(s). You can download a standard permission request template here: Permission request template
4. A publication embargo applies until the relevant issue is launched.
